

Katie Prince Ward Esker Collection

Series 1 through 7 Finding Aid

Biographical Information about Creator of Collection: Katie-Prince Ward Esker was a nationally known genealogist who grew up in Starkville in her maternal grandfather's, Dr. Enoch Prince Connell's, home at 314 Louisville Street. Dr. Connell used the house as a hospital when he lived there. Her father owned and edited the Starkville newspaper The East Mississippi Times until he died in 1933, and her maternal great-grandfather was Robert L. Lampkin, Oktibbeha County's first sheriff. In 1936 she married Jerome Esker, whom she met while in school in California, and who was working at the Government Printing Office while she was working as Congressional secretary jobs in Washington, D. C.. During the 10 years that she worked at the National Headquarters for the Daughters of the American Revolution Magazine, she created the 3-volume set The Genealogical Department, which is a book containing source records found in the DAR Magazine 1947-1950 during the time that she was genealogical queries editor. She was editor of the Wood-Woods Exchange v.1 1946--v.6 1955 periodicals. Mississippi Genealogical Exchange v.1 1955--v.12 1969. After her husband's death in 1961, she moved back to Starkville the following year to the home at 314 Louisville where she had grown up and stayed until she died in 1986. Her genealogical library and office was in a little house beside the main house. Those houses were torn down around 2015, after serving as rental property for several years. Mrs. Esker started the Oktibbeha County Historical and Genealogical Society. She was also a member of the Mississippi Historical Society, several lineage societies, including Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames, Huguenot Society, Daughters of Founders and Patriots, and National Daughters of the War of 1812. She died May 14, 1986.

Collection Processor: Carolyn Reed and Perian Kerr

Provenance on next page

Provenance:

Sometime after Katie-Prince Ward Esker's death in 1986, 130 of her genealogical book titles, many of them multi-volume sets, a large collection of genealogical magazines and genealogical correspondence files, and a wooden box full of genealogical note cards were bequeathed to the Starkville Public Library. After they were cataloged, they were housed in the room behind the circulation librarian's office that was designated as the Katie-Prince Ward Esker Collection. After making a list of all the file names, some of the Oktibbeha County Historical and Genealogical Society members brought the Esker genealogical files to the library in boxes. They transferred the files, in alphabetical order, to two filing cabinets in the same room. These genealogical correspondence files stayed there until the 1994 Library renovation, when both the Esker genealogical collection and the mezzanine floor genealogy collection moved to the new genealogy and local history room near the back door. Ten years later, in 2004, when the Stark local history and genealogy annex was completed, everything having to do with genealogy was moved again into the much larger space, with the goal of processing the Esker genealogical files correctly for storing long-term in the climate-controlled archives vault.

About 2006, Stark Annex librarians, and a few volunteers, began the job of archivally processing the genealogical files, replacing rusty staples and paper clips on the genealogical correspondence with archivally safe clips, before putting them into acid free file folders, placing them into labeled acid free document cases, which then were assigned their places on vault mobile shelving. The original list of files, provided by the historical society, was revised to remove from the list empty or missing file folders. Sometime between 2009 and 2014, historical society members brought the rest of the genealogical files and other items to be added to the Katie-Prince Ward Esker Collection. These new files and other items were put into document cases and flat boxes, and the genealogical files list was altered to include all the newly added items. Series names and numbers were assigned in August 2024 for the seven different types of materials that are part of the collection, and everything in boxes was re-labeled.
